-ALLIED EXHIBITION IN DUBLIN.

prise awaits visitors to the Inter- ition on the After-Care of Disabled will be opened this afternoon in House, Dublin. It shows in a nner what is being done to ever- sical disabilities of men who have ged from the Navy and Army, and them to pursue suitable occupations. y mind has not yet grasped the diffi- the problem nor realised what is to surmount them, but it will be ghtened by a visit to the exhibition. l phases of this national work are The Government, in dealing with , propose, in the first place, that ureau of science shall be employed in the men as far as possible in the provide educational facilities to men to become skilled in work can do despite their infirmities, and place that openings shall be found establishments for the men when the necessary qualifications. The has been arranged upon lines follow- ll those steps have so far led to no result. In view of the immense burden, both of tax- tion and of debt, amounting to no less than £5,000,000,000 sterling, this country is vitally concerned in the solution of and complicated social problem. Exhibition was originally opened by t Connaught in the Central Hall, Major Hall-Thompson, Major Director of Training of the Ministry

H ORTHOPÆDIC SECTION.

Room is open daily in the British Section, in which visitors will find ting exhibits, many of them pro- ed since the Armistice. Among the anical appliances which have been anced of real workmanship made ment men are shown artificial legs which are said to be specially ed for the Irish climate. These are ather in the one country nor in the other, and the funds for this purpose are re-borrowed up to the present time. The Treasury ot patent rights are affected, hesita- to make any suggestion that would involve further addition to the immense war effort- ary financial burden—which has already been and is being, made by the United States, and for which we could not adequately express our appreciation. But since the short circulating of the loans in question would not involve any increase in the sums to be found in the American war budget, we would express our hope that further consideration may be given to the proposal.

WORK OF ADJUTANT-GENERAL'S STAFF.

With regard to the Military Staff of the War Office, the Committee state that they have already twice reported on the continuous increase in the number of officers employed, and recommended that a systematic inquiry should be made into the matter. They have now been appointed a committee of its own members for the purpose, who in turn appointed a sub-committee, presided over by Major-General A. W. Money, who, on being given a commission abroad, was succeeded by Lieutenant-General Sir H. H. Tudor. Sir Nevil Macready has since been appointed to another post in April, and the work of the Committee has been much delayed. It was discontinued after the Committee had issued their first report in May, 1917, in connection with a request for the appointment of Mr. Lloyd George's secretary, Mr. Sutherland, to a rejoinder from the Adjutant-General, who questioned the competence of the Committee to deal with the matter. The Committee have now resumed many of their investigations, and rejected some of their recommendations. He appears to be quite satisfied that the Army Council has done all to this view. The Committee of Inquiry was discontinued and its recommendations as to the Finance Department of the War Office and the most part never been carried into effect.

ARMY COUNCIL CRITICISED.

In these circumstances the Army Council's proposal, the Committee say:—"The defect in the War Office system lies in these facts—first, in its unnecessary complexity, perhaps, at the time it was made, continues automatically, it though the volume of work may have diminished, and it is not always but duly to see that the staffs are adjusted when reductions become legitimate; and, secondly, that there is no frequent and effective review of the character of the work done by the War Office and by each of its branches with the possibility in the case of portions of it, where necessary, of substitution of portions of it, where necessary, of substitution to local commands. In our previous report, already referred to, we expressed ourselves convinced that the staff was not exercising a relation to the work necessary to the efficiency of the service, particularly that attached to the Army Council should be directed. We must express our disappointment that effect has not been given to the recommendations of the Adjutant-General. We consider that the Army Council and the funds for this purpose are re-borrowed up to the present time. The Treasury ot patent rights are affected, hesitated to make any suggestion that would involve further addition to the immense war effort- ary financial burden—which has already been and is being, made by the United States, and for which we could not adequately express our appreciation. (CONTINUED FROM COLUMN 7, PAGE 3.)

been fighting on the sea. In the fight taking place in the great world of waters, where there was no one to describe the events, we were apt to forget the heroism which was possible under those conditions. He was not much of a sailor himself when he crossed the Channel, and he hoped that one result, at any rate, of the League of Nations would be to make it unnecessary to cross the English Channel in a boat. Many times he had crossed in a torpedo boat, and knew the discomfort of it. It only took an hour or an hour and a half, and he felt that he would rather face anything than spend hours of the day and night in all sorts of weather under those conditions. Then he thought of our sailors who had to do it under every condition of weather, day and night, summer and winter, with a treacherous enemy endeavouring to aim death at their hearts, and he felt grateful to the gallant sailors who were defending our shores, and well had they done it. (Cheers.) "The German, said the Premier, has a good opinion of himself, and he had an idea that, although he had fewer ships than we had, he was somehow the better man, and that when the time came he would show it. Well, I wish he would begin. (Laughter.) Our sailors have been waiting and waiting for the German to begin, and I have a letter here on the sea, and he has not started yet after four years of war. He knows what the British Navy is like now. (Cheers.) In every land they know the sailor.

BLACK PIRACY.

We owe a debt of gratitude to the gallant sailors of Britain for the part they have played. Once or twice there have been signs of a revival of the old piracy, but the waiters a hundred and fifty of those pestiferous machines which are harrying merchant ships, and drowning women and children in the cruellest way ever perpetrated on the high seas—that number of submarines I am glad to say, is now reduced by more than half. The skill, ingenuity, science, resource, imagination, daring, and courage, were worthy of a better cause. Under the control of the enemy those fine old efforts of German form contrived to produce a machine which was a menace to all the world. (Cheers.) As for you, sirgs, you have had to face it, with your sons and you have had to face it, with your sons and your husbands in the services of the country, and every thought told that the majority of you you did it by contributing your full share to the great war loan which was floated in the hour of need. You did it by your labour, by your thrift, by your economy, by your willingness to endure everything the call to duty might entail on your unselfishness. You did it by your great comradeship which, I am sure, will be great comradeship when it is all over. You remember it in the days before it ever came to an end. You remember it in the days when your comrades in the front war with the Hun. Well, and recall the incidents of this terrible war, for all these things will be necessary for us to some extent, because of the fact that you have done a story, but this story is a story of triumph for the principles for which you were prepared to sacrifice your lives. It will be a story of triumph for the principles for which you were prepared to sacrifice your lives. It will be a story of triumph for all those who are associated with you in the great war, and I am sure that someone was associated with them, who met with a glorious end, and I ask you to drink to the memory of the gallant sailors who have fallen.

STILL PRESSING FORWARD.

BRITISH AND AMERICANS SIDE BY SIDE.

GREAT HAUL OF BOOTY.

CROWN PRINCE'S GROWING UNPOPULARITY.

The Press Association's Special Correspondent with the British Army in France, telegraphing on Saturday, says:—The whirligig of time continues to ring its vengeful changes wholly to our favour. The "good old German god," who is credited with having heretofore directed the weather for the benefit of the Huns, appears to have given up his job, for we could not ask for more advantageous campaigning conditions. Events have moved so rapidly in the last three days that the mind staggers under the effort to measure the full facts. The German claim to a monopoly of success in the art of open warfare has been blasted into the wake of their other vanished boasts. They are making a desperate effort to check the momentum of the Allied initiative, and several fresh divisions have been identified during the past thirty hours, but these far all efforts at counter-attacking have been unavailing. The carrying of the awkward little Chipilly Ridge on Friday evening broke down the one link of strong defence left to the enemy in his scattered line along the front of our offensive. It was a brilliant coup de grace, and rendered doubly interesting from the fact that it marks, I believe, the first occasion upon which English and American troops have fought side by side in this war.

THE "WHIPPETS" IN ACTION.

While the infantry have, as usual, covered themselves with glory, and the artillery have done incomparable work, the drive has been preeminently a battle of tanks, armoured cars, and cavalry. The "whippets" as these wonderful little speedy tanks are called, have played havoc against von Marwitz's German Army. Many of the people who were disgusted at their gallant deeds. Take, for example, the adventures of six of them, which are said to have advanced in single line to attack a battery of field guns which was proving very annoying. The story goes that the gunners, upon first sight of the open flights and cries, and thought that the majority of you you did it by contributing your full share to the great war loan which was floated in the hour of need. You did it by your labour, by your thrift, by your economy, by your willingness to endure everything the call to duty might entail on your unselfishness. You did it by your great comradeship which, I am sure, will be great comradeship when it is all over. You remember it in the days before it ever came to an end. You remember it in the days when your comrades in the front war with the Hun. Well, and recall the incidents of this terrible war, for all these things will be necessary for us to some extent, because of the fact that you have done a story, but this story is a story of triumph for the principles for which you were prepared to sacrifice your lives. It will be a story of triumph for all those who are associated with you in the great war, and I am sure that someone was associated with them, who met with a glorious end, and I ask you to drink to the memory of the gallant sailors who have fallen.

THE UNPOPULAR CROWN PRINCE.

Prisoners, as a whole seem remarkably cheerful at their fate, as though the load at last found removed from their shoulders. Among the most The Crown Prince seems to be the most unpopular man in the German Army, and is credited with having heretofore directed the weather for the benefit of the Huns, appears to have given up his job, for we could not ask for more advantageous campaigning conditions. CANADIANS' GREATEST ACHIEVEMENT.

In an interview with Reuter's Agency Sir Edward Kemp, Minister of Overseas Militia, on Saturday night stated that his official reports covering the operations of the Canadian Corps in the present offensive and the splendid achievements of the Canadians in the present offensive were the greatest in the history of the Corps. The Canadians advanced on the 8th and 9th was twelve miles, the Canadians having gone further in those two days than the Germans had progressed on the first two days of their offensive on March 21st. The frontage of the Canadian attack on the morning of August 8th was about 11,000 or 12,000 yards, while the line held on Saturday morning was about 16,000 yards in width. Even with the fighting of the open character. The prisoners captured by the Canadian Corps number 7,000 with upwards of 100 guns. On the first day the Canadians were opposed by four German divisions, every battalion of which was identified. Sir Edward Kemp said he was pleased for the outstanding success of the operations to the incomparable spirit of the officers and men, coupled with their splendid fighting and the magnificent team work between the infantry and the artillery. The artillery barrage was far larger than at Vimy, and was perfect in the infantry to be perfect. Counter battery work was so effective that the Canadians captured several German batteries that had not been able to take the muzzle-covers off their guns. All four Canadian divisions have played their part in the attack, and, in addition, the Canadian Cavalry Brigade has performed brilliant work, being on Saturday morning well in advance of the infantry, and in touch with the Headquarters by wireless. The Corps Commander communicated to Sir Edward Kemp a highly enthusiastic message testifying to the outstanding work of the corps, and the fine spirit and courage of all ranks, under the adversity that obtained. While definite figures as to casualties are not yet obtainable, the Canadian losses are declared by Sir Edward Kemp to be moderate, and the smallest by a long way of any previous engagement. The whole of the Canadian Corps has been engaged, and this notwithstanding that the accomplishments of the corps in the present battle are the most gratifying in the history of the corps.

THE TIME FOR GREATEST EFFORT.

A Reuter's Washington telegram on Saturday says:—General March, Chief of Staff, United States Chief of Staff, reviewing the British and Allied situation in his weekly interview with journalists declared that the whole battle line from Rheims to Flanders was being unchecked, and the time had come for the greatest effort. Marshal Foch was following the sound military principle of hitting while the iron was hot. Changed and the enemy going, said General March, keep him going. Emphasising the necessity of pressing on vigorously and giving the enemy no chance of rest to readjust himself, General March said that this was the object of the War Department in seeking to raise the draft ages, and to hurry to France ever increasing American forces. General March added that any suggestion that the end of the war was at hand should be discouraged, but that the time had come to keep the pot boiling, and hit him hard. He read a confidential report showing that the British in the first days of their drive had taken more prisoners than they could handle, and had also captured all the enemy artillery on their immediate front.

OIL AND FATS DISTRIBUTION SCHEME.

Under the new oils and fats distribution scheme, which comes into force on the 15th September, if any large wholesale manufacturer has not been communicated with by the Ministry, and considers he comes within the scope of category "Class A," he should notify the Director of Edible Fats Distribution, New County Hall, Westminster Bridge road, London, S.E. 1, and quote reference EFD/46. All manufacturers who have not received a notification from the Ministry will, generally speaking, be dealt with as Class B manufacturers.

CRITICAL SITUATION IN RUSSIA.

GERMANS FEAR A CHANGE OF GOVERNMENT.

COSSACKS CLEARING THE DON REGION.

An Exchange telegram from Copenhagen on Saturday says:—The German papers to-day openly admit that the situation in Russia is so critical that any day a change of Government may take place. For this reason, Dr. Helferich is now in Berlin. Baron Franz, the Austrian Minister, has left for Moscow. The Tageblatt Rundschau says:—In the last few weeks events developed rapidly in Russia, and Germany must be prepared for the overthrow of the Bolshevik Government in a few days. The fact that Dr. Helferich is in Berlin indicates that Germany is prepared to meet developments. The Frankfurter Zeitung states that the Czecho-Slovanians are a short distance from Moscow, and have cut off the food supply.

GERMAN EMBASSY AT MOSCOW REMOVED.

A Reuter's Copenhagen telegram on Sunday says:—According to Berlin telegram, Dr. Helferich, in view of the present situation in Moscow, and more particularly of the Social Revolutionary attempt on the life of Count Mirbach, has ordered the German Embassy at Moscow to be removed to Nishni Novgorod, a considerable distance to the south. It might affect the relations between Germany and the present Government of Russia. It is stated that Dr. Riedel, Counsellor of the Legation, and the other members of the Embassy Staff will leave Moscow for Nishni Novgorod to-night.

Reuter's Bureau is also obliged to abandon the idea of remaining in Petrograd, as the conditions prevailing there are the same as at Moscow.

UKRAINIANS AND THE DON GOVERNMENT.

A Reuter's Amsterdam telegram on Saturday says:—According to a Kieff telegram, on Berlin, the Kieff papers report that an exceedingly important conference took place on August 8th between the Ukrainian Government and the head of the delegation of the Don Government with the object of arriving at an agreement for the purport of the negotiations, the telegram adds, is for the present kept a secret.

IMPORTANT COSSACK SUCCESSES.

An Amsterdam telegram says:—The Moscow papers, according to the Tussische Zeitung, announce important successes of the Cossacks on the Northern Don region. Cossack troops have captured the railway line from Zaryzin northwards. Zaryzin is thus completely cut off.

DON REGION ALMOST CLEAR.

The Don Cossack Army announces that, as a result of operations during the last few months, almost the whole of the Don region has been cleared of Bolsheviks. The Cossacks now number 300,000 men, and the thousands of excellently equipped soldiers and a fresh decisive engagement cannot be long delayed.

CHINESE ARTILLERY FIRE ON BOLSHEVIKS.

A Moscow telegram published in the Rheinisch Westfalische Zeitung says that the Chinese Bolshevist leader, Semenoff, the Cossack leader, on the Chinese frontier, over the Red Guards. MR. BARNES, M.P., ON THE FOOD QUESTION.

Mr. G. N. Barnes, M.P., speaking on Saturday afternoon at an exhibition of co-operative societies allotment holders' produce, at Palmer's Green, London, said experience had shown that the allotment holder was the best friend of the agricultural labourer. He thought that interesting fact might be due to his taking a keener interest in the land than a man who had to get his living off it. In the harvest this year they had sufficient grain, if used for the "purpose of bread and nothing else," to feed the whole population for no less than forty weeks. Of course, some of the grain would be used for beer. Another satisfactory thing to contrast with that the year's harvest was the raising of the agricultural labourers' wages. In some places they had risen 15 per cent. since last year, and were before the war. Speaking upon the subject of allotments in the national sense, he said the number of allotment holders had grown since the war began from 570,000 to 1,400,000. They had 200,000 acres of land devoted to allotment production, and every one of those allotments produced its round figures seven tons of food.

MANUFACTURERS AND INCOME TAX ALLOWANCES.

A Parliamentary White Paper, issued on Saturday regarding income tax, states that in cases of trade or profession, the question of the amount allowable for "wear and tear" may now be carried by appeal from the Income Tax Commissioners to the Board of Referees. Allowances are continued for renewals of machinery, and in the computation of his profits a trader is allowed to deduct, as a trade expense, his whole outlay on repairs and maintenance and fire insurance premiums, and, where the whole an owner occupier of trade premises is allowed, tax free, a sum equal to one-sixth of the annual value of the premises, to provide a sinking fund to replace the building. Full depreciation is allowed for machinery or plant temporarily put out of use through the war, and for "controlled establishments" the income tax allowance has been extended to include deductions for exceptional depreciation or obsolescence.

ENGLISH RAILWAY WORKS DESTROYED BY FIRE.

A destructive fire occurred at Newcastle yesterday morning, when the electric train sheds of the North Eastern Railway, occupying five acres, were destroyed, together with thirty-eight electric coaches and a quantity of tools. The fire broke out at 7 o'clock, and by 8 the whole building was involved. The damage exceeds £100,000.

DUBLIN SCHOOLS' CADET CORPS

INSPECTED BY COL. LYNCH, M.P., AND CAPT. O'GRADY, M.P.

The Dublin Schools' Cadet Corps, which has been in camp during the past week on the Powerscourt demesne, held sports on Saturday, and were inspected by Colonel Arthur Lynch, M.P., and Captain J. O'Grady, M.P. Lord Powerscourt was present, and the Viscountess Powerscourt distributed the prizes. The officers present were:—Captain Murray-Wright, C.O.; Captain Hayden, R.W.F.; Lieutenant J. G. Dixon, Lieutenant R. E. Kennedy, Captain C. Gillespie, E.I.F. (attached); Lieutenant James S. McMahon, Adjutant, and Lieutenant Hopkins. There were also present.—Colonel Robinson, R.A.F., Irish Recruiting Council; Mr. Nolan Ferrall, Mr. R. J. Kelly, K.C.; and Dr. Ashe, hon. medical officer. Many relatives and friends of the cadets attended.

After the sports, Captain Murray-Wright introduced Colonel Lynch, Captain O'Grady, Mr. R. J. Kelly, and Dr. Ashe, who briefly addressed the Corps.

Colonel Lynch said he was very glad of the opportunity of saying a few words to them. They were, perhaps, at the most period of their lives. They were still in a sense in the land of dreams, but were living in a magical age of we had the vision to see it. Such times no epoch in history were fascinating or more splendid than that which was now unrolling before them on the Western front. Many who at the beginning of the war looked upon it as a fresh outbreak of terrorism, has ordered the German Embassy at Moscow to be removed to Nishni Novgorod, a considerable distance to the south. It might affect the relations between Germany and the present Government of Russia. It is stated that Dr. Riedel, Counsellor of the Legation, and the other members of the Embassy Staff will leave Moscow for Nishni Novgorod to-night.

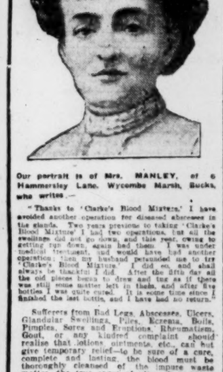
DUBLIN'S BEST STOUT

MOUNTJOY



Our portrait is of Mrs. MANLEY, of 6 Hammersley Lane, Wycombe Marsh, Bucks, who writes:—

"Thanks to 'Clarke's Blood Mixture,' I have avoided a serious illness, and am now well on the mends. Two years previous to taking 'Clarke's Blood Mixture' I had two operations, and all the swellings did not go down, and this year, owing to getting a bad cold, my leg broke out. I had medical treatment, and would have had another operation, but my husband persuaded me to try 'Clarke's Blood Mixture.' I did so, and shall keep from, with some force behind them, and a growing shrinkage in manufacturing production for trade. The world's shortage of raw cotton and also dearth in wool and coal supplies is causing a very uneasy feeling in Lancashire, Yorkshire, other districts, and throughout decreased markets. The situation with regard to foodstuffs, metals, etc., is causing grave concern, and generally has the English position, covering late labour troubles, in a somewhat unsatisfactory way with the reduced consumption effected through the rationing of coal, the large quantities of home and Colonial produce already in course of delivery, and the prospect of almost assured, independent of protective further increased fulfilment of contracts. There are over 35,000 casks of butter on the Denmark Dublin receipts in the year to date, all necessary. Egg markets have sharply contracted interest in view of the large stocks of both countries very favourably with the corresponding period of 1917. 9,150 bales.

LONDON MONEY MARKET.

Bank Rate (changed April 5th, 1917) ..... 5 p.a.

LONDON, SATURDAY AFTERNOON.

Nearly another three millions was disbursed today in Midland and South-Western Railway dividends. The Lens Market did not feel the effects of these payments, owing to the Stock Exchange being closed, and money was consequently very unable, though towards the finish the usual week-end Government disbursements had some easing influence. The rate for call loans was 5 per cent. at first, but afterwards the quotation declined to 2½ per cent. Weekly loans held at 3¼ per cent. Discount rates were very steady, especially for short-dated paper. The supply of bills was light. Two months' bank drafts were posted at 3¼ per cent., three months at 3⅜ per cent., four months at 3½ per cent., and six months at 3¾ per cent. September Treasury bills changed hands at 3¼ per cent., and October bills at 3¼ per cent. Trade paper was unaltered.

The Bank of England's rate on Saturday, was viewed today.

The Grand Trunk Railway of Canada revenue statement for June shows a decrease of £74,960 in receipts, at £705,850. There was one week's working day less this year, and of an increase of £311,000 in expenses for the month £40,000 is attributable to distribution of back pay from January 1st under the recent wage increase award. Grand Trunk Western and Detroit, Grand Haven and Milwaukee figures are not included, the lines are being controlled by the United States Government.
